41. Ms. Sukumar, submits that defendant no.3/AMAZON SELLER SERVICES PRIVATE LIMITED (hereinafter referred to as 'AMAZON') operates an interactive e-commerce marketplace, Amazon [https://www.amazon.in/], through which the defendant nos.1 (Zelta Enterprises) and 2 (Diya Enterprises Gallery) have been offering counterfeit products (hereinafter referred to as "impugned products") bearing the registered trademark "ALPS GOODNESS" and "ALPS GOODNESS ROSEMARY WATER" for sale to consumers across India, including within the territorial jurisdiction of this Court.

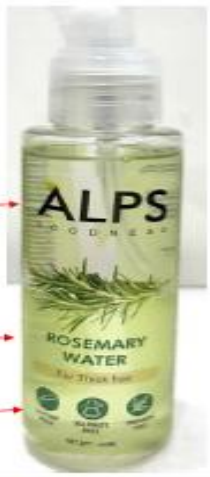

42. She further submits that in September, 2026 the plaintiff discovered that the defendant no. 1, appeared as a seller to the genuine product listings of the plaintiff in respect of "ALPS GOODNESS ROSEMARY WATER", and the said product was listed on the platform of the defendant no.3. that even the marketing license of the plaintiff has been copied.

46. It is contended that the products being offered by the plaintiff are regulated by the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 and the impugned products being sold using the trademark of the plaintiff raises serious concerns for the plaintiff as it may attract penal action.

47. She further submits that defendant no.1 has been operating as a seller to the genuine product listings of the plaintiff and when a consumer accesses the official product listing of the plaintiff and places an order, the customer receives the counterfeit product sold by defendant no. 1.

48. It is stated thatalong with the impugned product of defendant no.1,the plaintiff received a promotional leaflet along with it inside the box, advertising a product under the mark "BUFF OUT". The said leaflet is particularly significant to the present proceedings, as it expressly juxtaposes the plaintiff's product, "ALPS GOODNESS ROSEMARY WATER", with a product described as "BUFF OUT ROSEMARY WATER SPRAY". The leaflet prominently displays the expression "ALPS GOODNESS", followed by the words "अब BUFF OUT" in the Hindi version and the corresponding presentation in the English version. 49. Furthermore, on 06.10.2026, the plaintiff addressed a complaint to defendant no. 3/Amazon, bringing to its attention the activities of the defendant no. 1, and while the aforesaid complaint was being pursued, on 07.10.2026, the plaintiff discovered that it had lost access to the brand registry associated with its trademark "ALPS GOODNESS", despite being the proprietor.

50. She contends that subsequent to the plaintiff raising its complaint with the defendant no.3 and issuing seize and desist notice dated 07.10.2026 to defendant no.1, it was observed that in less than 24 hours of disappearance of the defendant no. 1, a change in the seller appeared on the relevant amazon product listings for the genuine products "ALPS GOODNESS ROSEMARY WATER" of the plaintiff.

51. Elaborating on her submission, she contends that the defendant no.1 was being depicted as a seller of the genuine products of the plaintiff but thereafter, another entity cropped up in the form of defendant no.2 and was being shown as a seller of the plaintiff's products. Thereafter, in order to ascertain whether the defendant no. 2 was independently dealing in the impugned products or had a nexus with defendant no.1, another order was placed through the seller account of the defendant no.2 on 10.10.2026, which was delivered at Bhogal, Delhi on 17.10.2026. The delivered product had the same material discrepancies and counterfeit indicators as the one previously supplied by defendant no. 1.

52. The attention of the court has been brought to the two tax invoices placed on record as Document-5 and Document-6, which were received by the plaintiff along with the products ordered by it on 12.09.2026 and 17.10.2026.

53. It is stated that the disappearance of defendant no.1 from amazon was not permanent, as it reappeared on or around 11.10.2026, and thereafter, both the defendants no. 1 and 2 continue to remain active sellers on the relevant Amazon listings for the genuine product "ALPS GOODNESS ROSEMARY WATER" and are also displayed as the preferred seller in place of the plaintiff's authorised seller account.

54. It is stated that upon continued engagement and follow up with the defendant no. 3 concerning loss of access to the brand registry, the plaintiff was able to regain its access during the 3rd week of October, 2026, however, the restoration of the brand registry has not brought the impugned activities of defendants no. 1 and 2 to an end.

55. It is further stated that on 23.10.2026, the plaintiff registered a detailed complaint with defendant no. 3, through its grievance officer, highlighting the continuing sale of the counterfeit products through the genuine product listings of the plaintiff, the substantial volume of third-party sales. The plaintiff also brought to the attention of the defendant No. 3 that between 1st October 2026 and 20th October 2026, third-party sellers had sold 33,297 units out of a total of 54,101 units, representing approximately 61.5% of the total sales of the relevant product on Amazon.in, while the authorised seller of the plaintiff had sold only 20,804 units.

56. It is also stated that the defendant nos. 1 and 2 are infringing not only the copyright in the artistic works and trade dress embodied in the packaging of the product ALPS GOODNESS ROSEMARY WATER of the plaintiff, but also its registered trademark i.e. ALPS GOODNESS, without plaintiff's authorization or consent.

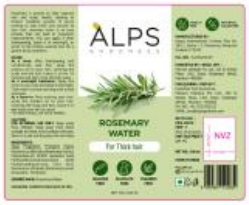

57. A perusal of the averments made in the plaint; the documents filed with the plaint and regard being had to the submissions made by Ms. Sukumar, this Court is of the prima facie view that the defendants are indulging in illegal activities and are selling counterfeit products by using identical trademarks/ copyright/ trade dress of the plaintiff, thereby violating its statutory and common law rights.

58. Thus, the plaintiffs have made out a prima facie case for grant of ex-parte ad interim injunction till the next date of hearing. Balance of convenience is also in favour of the plaintiffs. I am satisfied that the plaintiffs will suffer an irreparable loss and injury if an ex parte ad interim injunction is not granted.

59. Accordingly, till the next date of hearing, the following directions are passed:
